

NEXUS: The Canadian Student Journal of Anthropology

<http://digitalcommons.mcmaster.ca/nexus>

Department of Anthropology

McMaster University

Hamilton, Ontario, Canada

nexusjournal@gmail.com

CALL FOR PAPERS

Volume 22
SPECIAL ISSUE

The ANTHROPOLOGY of INFECTIOUS DISEASE

Submission Deadline EXTENDED: October 12th, 2010

NEXUS is seeking submissions for a Special Issue on the Anthropology of Infectious Disease, in order to showcase unique work in this topic area from current and former students in the Department of Anthropology. We also welcome and encourage submissions from non-McMaster students.

For submission guidelines and more information, visit our NEW website

<http://digitalcommons.mcmaster.ca/nexus>

and click on the "Policies" link in the left-hand column.

All submissions MUST be uploaded online to the Nexus website.

Nexus is a graduate student-run publication from the McMaster University Department of Anthropology. For nearly thirty years, Nexus has provided a forum for quality four-field student work in anthropology from Canadian and international colleges and universities. Nexus attempts to present a cross section of current student work from any area of anthropology, and to advance scholarship through anonymous, double-blind peer review. Nexus is now fully open-access and available online through DigitalCommons from Bepress and the libraries of McMaster University.